

Typeface Handout

Typefaces (or fonts) are divided into three basic categories: Serif, Sans Serif, and Script. Serifs are short lines or details that appear on the ends of line strokes that make up a letter. Sans serif simply means "without serif." These are letters that do not have any lines or details on the ends of the letters. A script font is similar to a brush stroke effect. They are similar to handwriting in that they are slanted and looser. Below are examples of each style:

Serif

Baskerville
Bookman
Century
Courier
Garamound
Lucida
Modern
Palatino
Paramount
PERPETUA
Poster
STENCIL
Stonehenge
Times
UNICORN

Sans Serif

Arial
GOTHIC
Chalkboard
Cuckoo
Eurostile
Futura
Gill Sans
Humanist
Impact
LYTHOS
METRO
Moderne
OREOS
Techno

Script

Aristocrat
Brody
Brushscript
Calligrapher
Calligraphy
Chaucer
Corsiva
Cotillion
Creampuff
Edwardian
Matura
Snell
Mistral
Ribbon